This Planter by Nature of Early Play is a great addition to any garden or park. Additionally these can be placed in places different than outdoor areas to bring a little more greenery to the area, making it great for indoor use as well. Adding these planters to your area gives the chance to allow kids to plant fruits, vegetables or flowers that they are interested in. This can teach them responsibility as they water the plants every day and tend to the leaves. This Planter is made from recycled plastic materials is the perfect way to bring greenery to your location, while also making the world a greener place in general. The post-consumer plastic has high strength and water resistance to help it withstand all types of weather while keeping water and soil contained inside the planter. This elongated shape looks great alongside pathways, or in pairs flanking an entrance. The tops of the planters have overhangs which conveniently double as handles to allow easy transportation of the lightweight planter when it is empty. These plants are one-foot in width and one-foot in height, except for the cube which is 2-feet in length, height and width. Choose your length preference.
