This Round Planter by Nature of Early Play is the perfect way to accent any outdoor pathway or garden. It is made from rotationally molded plastic, which is highly durable, yet lightweight. This makes the planter easy to transport when it is empty, but still sturdy enough to easily contain the soil and water without leakage. The planter measures 30-inches in diameter, with a height of one-foot. This makes it easily large enough to fit most flowers and even shrubberies, with plenty of space for their roots to grow. But, this planter is small enough to fit in most areas so it is awesome for small gardens or even patios or walkways And since the planter has no bottom, the plants can grow right into the ground if they do eventually run out of room, allowing their roots to run deep for healthy growth.
