This Bird House by Nature of Early Play is a great way to provide birds with a home, while helping out the environment. This house is modeled for blue birds specifically, although many other species of birds will also be happy to reside here. This house is made from recycled high density polyethylene plastic that makes it able to last for years without breaking or chipping- providing a home for many birds through the years. The recycled plastic materials used in its construction are extremely water resistant, which helps keep the baby birds healthy and dry. And after they grow up and leave the nest, you will easily be able to clean the box out for the next family by opening the convenient side opening. Pair this Bird House with the Bird Feeder by Nature of Early Play to complete your bird sanctuary.
